Stanford University
Department of Mechanical Engineering

Faculty Opening

The Department of Mechanical Engineering at Stanford University (http://me.stanford.edu/) invites applications for a tenure-track faculty appointment at the junior level (Assistant or untenured Associate Professor). Applications will be reviewed across all disciplines of mechanical engineering. As part of recent strategic planning, the department has identified special hiring needs and opportunities in controls, robotics, manufacturing, and biomedical engineering. The winning candidate may excel in experiments, theory and modeling, computations, device fabrication, or any combination of these approaches.

An earned Ph.D., evidence of the ability to pursue a program of research, and a strong commitment to teaching are required. Successful candidates will be expected to teach courses at the undergraduate and graduate levels and to build and lead a team of graduate students in Ph.D. research.

Applications should include a curriculum vitae with a list of publications, a one-page statement each of research vision and teaching interests, and the names and addresses of five references. Please submit your application online at:

http://soe-apps.stanford.edu/FacultyApplyME

NOTE: Please have all of your documents in .pdf format, and names of references and e-mail addresses ready, before you apply as you will not be able to edit your application after it has been submitted.

Candidates will be given full consideration until December 15, 2015, and applications will be considered until the position is filled.

Stanford University is an equal opportunity employer and is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. It welcomes nominations of and applications from women, members of minority groups, protected veterans and individuals with disabilities, as well as from others who would bring additional dimensions to the university’s research, teaching and clinical missions.
